José Maurício Nunes Garcia (1767-1830) composed at least 237 sacred and secular works and was the son of a Black woman and Brazilian lieutenant. He helped to found the Brotherhood of St Cecelia and was ordained a priest in 1792. Garcia was the mestre de capela of the Rio de Janeiro Cathedral, was famous for his keyboard improvisations, and was considered to be the most prominent Brazilian composer of his time.
