Françoise-Charlotte de Senneterre Ménéto (1679-1745) was a French harpsichordist, singer, dancer, and the youngest female composer to have a collection of airs published in France. Her 1691 book of fifteen Airs sérieux was printed when she was eleven, two years after she first played for Louis XIV. She danced at noble marriage balls, and François Couperin's "La Ménéto" was written to commemorate her.
